

MOKAPU PENINSULA

The Mokapu Peninsula, one of the most aesthetic places on Oahu in terms of natural beauty, is steeped in Hawaiian tradition. Its very name, "Mokapu," means "Sacred Lands." Ancient Hawaiians buried thousands of their dead in the sand dunes located along Holes 13, 14 and 15. These sand dunes are sacred to Hawaiians and are listed in the National Historic Register of Historic Places. In 1949, as part of the Naval Air Station, the first nine holes were constructed. In 1951, as part of the Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, construction began on a second nine holes and was completed in 1952.

Entrance is prohibited into environmentally sensitive areas as defined by red stakes with green tops. Your playing options are those of a lateral water hazard with the exception that you may not play out of these areas. If your ball lies outside these areas, but your stance would be inside these areas you may take a drop without penalty. See Appendix I, USGA Rules.
